

Lecture 1

Quebec City is a walled city to keep “invaders” out. Also, an old city.

Encourage you to practice and hone writing skills in this class.

Professional way of writing in an academic setting.

Scott H. Young Quote

We think in narrative – as in makeup stories when talking to one another

Individually, collectively, nationally

We make up stories from our experience.

Also, we make assumptions about things and people and create our own stories of “fiction”

If all people's experiences are biased how do we know what to believe?

Multiple perspectives shape our experience and our story.
