Breakout Group 3(chapter 3): Alyssa Castillo, Colin Morris-Moncada

1. He asked him to help because he spoke English better. The Inspector had other agents that spoke better English but since he had happened to see him there, he thought he could go in instead.
2. Gamache knows the library and unlike some of the Quebec City police that have a disdain for the Anglophones of the Lit and His society, he does not. He has an unbiased attitude towards the investigation.

Summary: A police car was in front of the Lit and His Society and Gamache recognized clues that it was most likely a homicide. A body was found by the telephone repair man. Such as, the number of police, the lack of urgency, and the presence of an ambulance. Elizabeth was watching the Inspector and Chief from the 2nd story and chased Gamache and asked him for his help. Elizabeth then whispered to Gamache that the body that was found was Augustin Renaud.
